Author and Entrepreneur to Begin Virtual Blog Series, Tessology Tuesdays

Huntsville, AL. – Entrepreneur, educator, author and blogger, Contessa Jackson will begin a new endeavor as virtual talk show host on her new blog series – Tessology Tuesdays. This series will be a virtual blog that will launch August 5, 2014 at 7pm CST on www.spreecast.com. “Tess” will engage in several topics such as reality television, time management, big cities/travel, career fashion, family dinner scheduling, job searching, and home and office organization, amongst other topics of interest to women. The blog will target women of all ages, especially those who wear several hats and have several layers of interest.

Contessa is a native of Miami, Florida who has earned several degrees in the field of education. She is also a certified event planner. As an entrepreneur, Contessa is the owner and CEO of Teachers PETS Academy, a non-profit K-12 school and Exclusively by Tess, LLC, which implements professional design techniques to every kind of event. Contessa’s ambitions and talents have also led her to become a published author of her first book, My TESStimony, through which she portrays her journey as a business- woman, wife, mother, and lover of life.

Tessology Tuesday will be an experience for every woman, every age, and every walk of life. Begin this new journey with Tessa on August 5.
